Special Issue on Public Service and Public Administration

Call for Papers

Public service is a service intended to serve all members of a community. It is usually provided by the government to people living within its jurisdiction, either directly (through the public sector) or by financing provision of services. Public administration is the implementation of government policy and also an academic discipline that studies this implementation and prepares civil employees for working in the public service.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Public Service and Public Administration. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Public admiration and public policy
- Government & public services
- Civil service management
- Politics of service
- Public management
- Administrative sciences and policy studies
- International and global affairs
- Public service and social issues
- Social service management
- Community service
- Service quality and improvement
- Responses to COVID-19

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue – *Public Service and Public Administration" should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:
