Special Issue on Public Economic Management

Call for Papers

Public economic management, as state governance from the perspective of economics, systematically studies the contents of public goods, public regulation, public expenditure, taxation theory and government financial relationship from the perspective of the economic function of the government under the market economic system. It occupies a very important position in social practice. The purpose of this topic is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians around the world to explore the basic connotation, elements, main functions, obvious characteristics, operational principles and related theories of public economic management.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring public economic management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Market and government
- Optimal allocation of resources
- Public economic model and taxation
- Public budget management
- Public goods supply
- Public economic decision-making
- Economic analysis of public utilities

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Public Economic Management” should be chosen during your submission.
