Special Issue on Economic Growth

Call for Papers

Economic growth is the increase in the inflation-adjusted market value of the goods and services produced by an economy over time. It is conventionally measured as the percent rate of increase in real gross domestic product, or real GDP. It concerns economic issues about growth models, income distribution, human capital, production, trade, migration, money, political policy, and economic fluctuations.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on economic growth. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Growth impact and policy regulation
- Financial development & growth
- Factors, theories and models
- Capital structure and growth trends
- Economic fluctuations and inflation
- Regression & crisis analysis and reducing
- Business cycle and GDP growth
- Industrial management and sustainable growth
- Economic drivers
- International trade and economic growth

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Economic Growth” should be chosen during your submission.
