

Special Issue on Literature Review and Criticism

Call for Papers

A literature review identifies, evaluates and synthesizes the previously published works on a specific topic. It provides the researcher/author and the audiences with a general image of the existing knowledge on the topic under question. Literary criticism is the study, evaluation, and interpretation of literature, which is often influenced by literary theory. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Literature Review and Criticism.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Literature Review and Criticism. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Argumentative review
- Historical review
- Integrative review
- Methodological review
- Systematic review
- Theoretical review
- Academic criticism
- Enlightenment criticism
- New criticism
- Renaissance criticism
- Romantic criticism
- Article review
- Book review
- Analysis and interpretation

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Literature Review and Criticism” should be selected during your submission.
