

Special Issue on Law and Human Rights

Call for Papers

Human rights are the basic rights and freedoms that are inherent to us all, regardless of nationality, sex, national or ethnic origin, color, religion, language, or any other status. Human rights are moral principles or norms for certain standards of human behavior and are regularly protected in municipal and international law. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Law and Human Rights.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Law and Human Rights. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Civil and political rights
- Economic, social and cultural rights
- Rights of women
- Rights of children
- Rights of disabilities
- Equality and discrimination
- Human rights and democracy
- Legal rights & ethical responsibilities

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Law and Human Rights” should be selected during your submission.
