

Special Issue on Health Education and Promotion Initiatives

Call for Papers

Health Education is the profession of educating people about health. It covers educations for environmental health, physical health, social health, emotional health, intellectual health and spiritual health. Health promotion is the process of enabling people to increase control over, and to improve, their health. Health education has been widely carried out to help individuals and communities to promote their health, by increasing their knowledge or influencing their attitudes. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of health education and promotion initiatives.

We open this special issue to call for paper from worldwide researchers. If you are doing research on health education and promotion initiatives or related areas, and you have something to say on this issue, please do not hesitate to submit your manuscripts to us.

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal at Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue – Health Education and Promotion Initiatives” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue timetable:

Submission Deadline	October 15th, 2015
Publication Date	December 2015

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at health@scirp.org