

Special Issue on Whole Person Health

Call for Papers

Whole Person Health is an interdisciplinary academic topic that encompasses the physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual well-being of individuals. This holistic approach acknowledges the interconnectedness of various aspects of health, emphasizing the importance of considering the whole person rather than focusing on specific areas or symptoms. It explores the dynamic interplay between physical, mental, and emotional health, and recognizes the influence of social, cultural, and environmental factors. This comprehensive perspective seeks to promote optimal health and wellness by addressing all dimensions of an individual's well-being, leading to a balanced and harmonious life.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Whole Person Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Biological and psychological factors on overall health
- Social & environmental determinants of health
- Mind-body medicine
- Spiritual health
- Emotions and mental health
- Integrative medicine
- Positive emotions and overall health
- Health inequalities and population health
- Lifestyle factors and psychological well-being
- Healthy lifestyles and chronic diseases prevention
- Integrate behavioral and physical health
- Occupational health and well-being
- Behavioral health and primary care
- Integrative care

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Whole Person Health” should be chosen during your submission.
