

Special Issue on
Advances in Agricultural Chemistry and Environment
Call for Papers

Agricultural Chemistry and Environment is a multidisciplinary field that focuses on the interaction between agriculture, chemistry, and the environment. It involves studying the impact of agricultural practices, such as the use of fertilizers, pesticides, and other chemicals, on the environment, including soil, water, air, and ecosystems. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Agricultural Chemistry and Environment.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Advances in Agricultural Chemistry and Environment. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Agricultural production
- Agriculture and chemistry
- Animal feeds
- Crops and livestock yield
- Fertilizers
- Herbicides
- Insecticides
- Organic pollutants
- Organics utilization
- Soil fertility
- Sustainable agriculture practices
- Soil health and fertility management
- Crop nutrition and fertilization strategies
- Environmental impacts of pesticides and herbicides
- Conservation of soil and water resources
- Agricultural waste management and disposal
- Use of agrochemicals and their residues
- Impact of agriculture on biodiversity and ecosystem services
- Mitigation of soil contamination and pollution
- Adoption of environmentally-friendly farming techniques

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Advances in Agricultural Chemistry and Environment” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	May 21st, 2024
Publication Date	July 2024
