

Special Issue on Economics and Culture

Call for Papers

Economy is the foundation, politics is the concentrated expression of economy, and culture is the reflection of economy and politics. Certain culture is determined by certain economy and politics. The basic framework of the cultural economy consists of three major parts: production, circulation and consumption. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Economics and Culture.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Economics and Culture. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Politics, economics and culture
- Culture, economics and sustainability
- Labor economics
- Welfare economics
- Production, cost, and efficiency
- Development economics
- Cultural area and culture change
- Inflation and monetary policy
- International economics theory and policy

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Economics and Culture” should be selected during your submission.
