

Special Issue on Learning and Education

Call for Papers

Learning is the process of absorbing knowledge, values and skills. Education is the process of imparting knowledge, values, skills and attitudes that are beneficial to individuals. Both learning and education have a great influence on a person's thoughts and character. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Learning and Education.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Learning and Education. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Child education and learning
- Online learning and traditional learning
- Learning environment and technology
- Educational assessment and evaluation
- Health education and public health
- Educational reform and development
- Learning skills and methods
- Learning attitudes and teaching
- Global education and training
- School education
- Training and adult education

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Learning and Education” should be selected during your submission.
