

Special Issue on
Psychological, Behavioral and Social Sciences

Call for Papers

Psychological, Behavioral and Social Sciences focuses on the study of cognitive, social, developmental and biological psychology within the broader context of the behavioral sciences. It aims to develop our scientific understanding of human thoughts and behaviors, the psychological processes underlying these and the relationship of these processes to brain function. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Psychological, Behavioral and Social Sciences.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Psychological, Behavioral and Social Sciences. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Autism spectrum disorder
- Behavioral science
- COVID-19 outbreak and anxiety
- Individual differences
- Loneliness
- Mental health
- Posttraumatic growth
- Self-efficacy
- Self-identity
- Social support
- Subjective wellbeing

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Psychological, Behavioral and Social Sciences” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	December 30th, 2022
Publication Date	February 2023

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at jss@scirp.org.