

---

Special Issue on New Political Economy

Call for Papers

New Political Economy is an academic field that studies the dynamic relationship between politics and economics, incorporating interdisciplinary approaches from economics, political science, and sociology. It focuses on analyzing how political factors, institutions, and power dynamics shape economic systems and outcomes. This field explores the complex interactions between state policies, market forces, and societal influences to better understand how economic decisions and outcomes are shaped, and how they, in turn, influence political processes and social welfare.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on New Political Economy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Comparative political economy
- Political economy in macroeconomics
- Economics and international relations
- Political economy & government
- Policy and public economics
- Monetary and fiscal policy
- Central banking
- International political economy
- Policy making and reform
- Political economy of development
- Political and economic systems
- Economics, politics and sociology
- The historical evolution of economic systems
- Historical political economy
- International political economy
- Marxist political economy
- Institutional political economy
- Developmental political economy
- Environmental political economy
- Politics of global supply chains
- Culture, economy and politics

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

---

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *New Political Economy” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	May 13th, 2024
Publication Date	July 2024

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

ME Editorial Office
me@scirp.org