

Special Issue on International Trade and Global Economy

Call for Papers

"International Trade and Global Economy" is an academic field that examines how countries exchange goods, services, and capital across international borders. It explores the mechanisms of trade, such as tariffs, trade agreements, and global supply chains, and analyzes their effects on economic growth, development, and disparities among nations. This discipline also delves into the policies that govern international trade and their implications for global economic relations, including issues of globalization, protectionism, and the impact of multinational corporations. The study equips scholars and policymakers with insights into optimizing trade policies for economic welfare and navigating the complexities of the global economic landscape, amidst challenges like economic sanctions, trade wars, and changing geopolitical dynamics.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on International Trade and Global Economy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Macroeconomics, trade & investment
- International trade and globalization
- Trade and development
- International marketing and emerging markets
- International monetary systems
- Trade policy and negotiations
- Trade and political economy
- International trade and economic growth
- Comparative advantage and trade patterns
- Foreign direct investment
- Multinational corporations and global strategies
- Global value chain and global supply chain
- Economic integration and regional trade agreements
- Globalization and its discontents
- Trade disputes and international arbitration

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *International Trade and Global Economy” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	August 12th, 2024
Publication Date	October 2024

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

ME Editorial Office
me@scirp.org