

Special Issue on Pregnancy Complications

Call for Papers

Complications of pregnancy are health problems that occur during pregnancy. They can involve the mother's health, the baby's health, or both. Some women have health problems that arise during pregnancy, and other women have health problems before they become pregnant that could lead to complications. It is very important for women to receive health care before and during pregnancy to decrease the risk of pregnancy complications.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring pregnancy complications. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Ectopic pregnancy
- Preeclampsia
- Gestational Diabetes Mellitus (GDM)
- Preterm labor and birth
- Intrauterine growth restriction (IUGR)
- Pregnancy-induced hypertension

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal at Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue – Pregnancy Complications” should be selected during your submission.
