

Special Issue on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention
Call for Papers

Health promotion is the process of enabling people to increase control over, and to improve, their health. It moves beyond a focus on individual behavior towards a wide range of social and environmental interventions. Disease and disability are affected by environmental factors, genetic predisposition, disease agents, and lifestyle choices, and are dynamic processes which begin before individuals realize they are affected. Disease prevention relies on anticipatory actions that can be categorized as primal, primary, secondary, and tertiary prevention.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Preventive healthcare
- Primary prevention
- Community engagement
- Pandemic prevention
- Clinical preventive services
- Health promotion interventions
- Applied behavior analysis
- Social and environmental interventions
- Health education and health promotion
- Health promoting policy
- Supportive environments for health
- Preventive and social medicine
- Quality of life
- Health knowledge, behaviors and attitudes
- Health literacy
- Health and wellness
- Health equity
- Public health promotion
- Prevention service and healthcare system
- Behavioral risk factors

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission.

Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Health Promotion and Disease Prevention” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	February 24th, 2023
Publication Date	April 2023

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

OJPM Editorial Office
ojpm@scirp.org