

Special Issue on Marxist Philosophy

Call for Papers

Marxist philosophy is a classical sociological theory. Based on the Historical Materialism, Marx believes that the motive force of social change lies in the conflicts between classes. Marxist philosophy enables us to understand the systematic economic and social changes through the analysis of stratum conflicts. To solve the relationship between humanity and the world from practice is the essence and key of the great philosophical change of Marxist philosophy.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring Marxist philosophy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Dialectical materialism
- Materialistic dialectics
- Scientific Outlook on Development
- Epistemology
- Historical materialism
- Practical materialism
- Human-oriented
- Marxist philosophy and society

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Marxist Philosophy” should be chosen during your submission.
