

Special Issue on History of Philosophy

Call for Papers

Philosophy encompassed all bodies of knowledge, such as those about existence, reason, knowledge, values, mind, and language. The concept of history plays a fundamental role in human thought, which invokes notions of human agency, change, the role of material circumstances in human affairs, and the putative meaning of historical events, raises the possibility of “learning from history”, suggests the possibility of better understanding ourselves in the present, by understanding the forces, choices, and circumstances that brought us to our current situation. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of History of Philosophy.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring History of Philosophy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Antiquity and middle ages
- Historical human nature
- Pre-socratic philosophy
- Medieval philosophy
- Classical philosophy
- Early modern philosophy
- Renaissance philosophy
- Greek studies

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - History of Philosophy” should be selected during your submission.
