

Special Issue on Law and Politics

Call for Papers

Law and Politics examines the dynamic relationship between legal systems and political institutions. It involves the study of how political decisions and processes shape the development, application, and interpretation of laws, as well as how legal frameworks influence political structures and behaviors. This field explores various aspects such as constitutional law, international law, political science, and public policy. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Law and Politics.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Law and Politics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Civil rights and law
- Government's involvement in law
- International law and politics
- Judicial system
- Law and courts
- Law and order
- Legislation and policy
- Legislative framework
- Political parties
- Race and violence issues
- Regional law and politics

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Law and Politics” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	January 31st, 2024
Publication Date	March 2024

Scientific Research
Open Access

Open Journal of Political Science

ISSN Online: 2164-0513

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at articlesubmissionmao@hotmail.com

OJPS Editorial Office
ojps@scirp.org