

Special Issue on Politics, Culture, and Society

Call for Papers

Politics, Culture, and Society is a field of study that examines the relationship between politics, culture, and society. It explores how cultural norms, values, and practices shape political behavior and vice versa. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Politics, Culture, and Society.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Politics, Culture, and Society. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Ethnic groups
- Social norms
- Religion and politics
- Personal networks
- Cultural values
- Cultural diplomacy
- Communication and social effects
- Diversity and inclusion
- Social transformations
- Social movements
- Political culture and democracy
- Ideas and ideologies in politics
- Political attitudes and behavior
- Political culture and public opinion
- Political socialization and acculturation

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Politics, Culture, and Society” should be selected during your submission.
