

Special Issue on Positive Psychology

Call for Papers

Positive psychology is "the scientific study of what makes life most worth living", or "the scientific study of positive human functioning and flourishing on multiple levels that include the biological, personal, relational, institutional, cultural, and global dimensions of life". Positive psychology is concerned with eudaimonia, "the good life", reflection about what holds the greatest value in life – the factors that contribute the most to a well-lived and fulfilling life.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Positive Psychology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Positive emotion, personality and behavior
- Psychological well-being and subjective well-being
- Satisfaction, relationship and mental health
- Self-efficacy and achievements
- Enjoyment and behaviors
- Intimate and romantic relationships
- Positive and attachment relationships
- Pleasure feeling and happiness
- The role of optimism and emotional intelligence
- Self-regulation and positive attitudes

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue – Positive Psychology" should be chosen during your submission.
