

Special Issue on General Surgery

Call for Papers

General Surgery is a broad discipline within medicine that focuses on the operative and non-operative management of various conditions that affect the abdomen, digestive tract, endocrine system, breast, skin, and blood vessels, among other areas. It encompasses a wide range of surgical procedures including appendectomies, hernia repairs, gallbladder removals, and mastectomies. General surgeons are also trained to handle critically ill patients with underlying surgical conditions in emergency settings. The field requires a deep understanding of anatomy, physiology, pathology, and wound healing, as well as proficiency in diagnostic and surgical techniques to treat a wide array of diseases and injuries.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on General Surgery. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Abdominal surgery
- Gastrointestinal surgery
- Breast surgery
- Endocrine surgery
- Vascular surgery
- Surgical oncology
- Trauma and critical care surgery
- Minimally invasive surgery
- Pediatric surgery

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – General Surgery” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	August 27th, 2024
