

Special Issue on International Trade, Business Environments, and Regulations

Call for Papers

International trade is a kind of transaction across the country and regions. In the international trade, both parties are in different countries and regions, different countries have distinct political systems, legal systems and cultural backgrounds, therefore involves different policies, laws and trade practices. Research on the current development trend and characteristics of international trade, is an important prerequisite for countries to develop and improve the export development strategy.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring international trade, business environments, and regulations. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- International business environments
- International trade regulations
- International trade structure
- International trade finance
- International trade personnel training
- Electronic commerce and international trade

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue –International Trade, Business Environments, and Regulations” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	August 31st, 2017
Publication Date	October, 2017

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at tel@scirp.org