

Special Issue on Macroeconomics

Call for Papers

Macroeconomics is a branch of economics that studies the performance, structure, behavior, and decision-making of an economy as a whole. In macroeconomics, a variety of economy-wide phenomena is thoroughly examined, including: inflation, consumption, price levels, rate of growth, national income, investment, international trade, GDP and unemployment.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Macroeconomics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Output and income
- Unemployment
- Inflation and deflation
- Monetary policy
- Fiscal policy
- Macroeconomic forecasting
- International trade
- International finance

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Macroeconomics” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:
