

Special Issue on International Economics

Call for Papers

International economics is concerned with the effects upon economic activity from international differences in productive resources and consumer preferences and the international institutions that affect them. It seeks to explain the patterns and consequences of transactions and interactions between the inhabitants of different countries, including trade, investment and migration.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on international economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- International trade
- International finance
- International political economy
- International monetary policy
- Exchange rates and capital mobility
- International financial stability
- Imports and exports
- Global markets

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *International Economics” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	December 10th, 2018
Publication Date	February 2019

TEL Editorial Office
tel@scirp.org