

Special Issue on Accounting, Finance & Economics

Call for Papers

Accounting, Finance & Economics is an academic field that encompasses the study of financial systems, economic principles, and the measurement and communication of economic information. It delves into financial accounting, managerial accounting, financial management, investment analysis, and economic theory. This interdisciplinary field examines how economic factors, financial decisions, and accounting practices impact businesses, individuals, and society as a whole, aiming to enhance financial performance, decision-making, and economic understanding.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Accounting, Finance & Economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Financial accounting and reporting
- Managerial accounting and cost management
- Auditing and assurance services
- Corporate finance and investment analysis
- Financial markets and institutions
- Behavioral finance and decision-making
- Financial risk management and derivatives
- International finance and foreign exchange markets
- Public finance and government accounting
- Economics of money, banking, and financial markets

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Accounting, Finance & Economics” should be chosen during your submission.
