

Special Issue on Monetary Theory, Policy and Economics

Call for Papers

"Monetary Theory, Policy and Economics" is an academic topic that encompasses the study of the underlying theories, principles, and empirical analysis of the impact of monetary policy on the economy. It examines the role of money, financial markets, and central banks in influencing economic variables such as inflation, unemployment, interest rates, and economic growth. Researchers in this field aim to understand the mechanisms by which monetary policy affects these variables and develop theories and models to guide optimal policy decisions and enhance economic stability.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Monetary Theory, Policy and Economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Models for monetary policy analysis
- Quantity theory of money
- Empirical analysis of monetary policy
- Models for monetary policy analysis
- Monetary and fiscal policy
- Money and banking theory
- Monetary policy transmission mechanisms
- Monetary theory and economic growth
- Political economy of money and finance
- Money supply and inflation
- International monetary economics
- Monetary policy and public finance
- Exchange rate dynamics
- Inflation targeting and central bank independence
- Monetary policy rules and frameworks
- Monetary economics of financial crises
- Monetary policy and financial stability
- Financial market interactions with monetary policy
- Optimal monetary policy under uncertainty
- Fiscal-monetary policy interactions
- Monetary policy and income distribution

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Monetary Theory, Policy and Economics” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	May 17th, 2024
Publication Date	July 2024

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

TEL Editorial Office
tel@scirp.org