Special Issue on Infrastructure and Economics

Call for Papers

Infrastructure and economics attempts to study the infrastructure from economics view point, involving business activities in communication, transportation, distribution networks, financial institutions, markets, energy supply systems, etc.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on infrastructure and economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Public investment
- Cost analysis of infrastructure projects
- Models of infrastructure development
- Infrastructure and economic growth
- Network economic development
- Urban and rural development
- Government spending on infrastructure
- Energy economics and policy
- Economic analysis on buildings, transportation, communication, healthcare systems

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Infrastructure and Economics” should be chosen during your submission.
