Special Issue on Business, Finance and Investment

Call for Papers

Financial investment is a concept of commodity economy. It is formed on the basis of physical investment with the continuous enrichment and development of the concept of investment in the process of economic development. It has gradually become an investment behavior that attracts more attention and attention than physical investment. In finance, the expected future benefit from investment is called a return. The return may consist of capital gain and/or investment income, including dividends, interest, rental income etc. The economic return to an investment is the appropriately discounted value of the future returns to the investment.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring business, finance and investment. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Asset merger and acquisition
