Special Issue on Fatigue and Related Disorders

Call for Papers

Fatigue is a subjective feeling of tiredness, which can be physical, mental or both. Fatigue can have many possible causes, such as anemia, depression, Iron deficiency, eating disorders and so on. Fatigue is a common symptom, and it is usually not due to a serious disease. But it can be a sign of a more serious mental or physical condition.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Fatigue and Related Disorders. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Physical fatigue
- Mental fatigue
- Chronic fatigue syndrome
- Symptoms of fatigue
- Medical causes
- Lifestyle-related causes
- Psychological causes

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Fatigue and Related Disorders” should be selected during your submission.
