Special Issue on Intensive Care Medicine

Call for Papers

Intensive care medicine, or critical care medicine, is a branch of medicine concerned with the diagnosis and management of life-threatening conditions that may require sophisticated life support and monitoring.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Intensive Care Medicine. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Life support and monitoring in ICU
- Treatment and therapy for critical illness
- Critical care clinical practice
- Care and management for critically ill patients
- Infection control
- Competing and conflicting interests in ICU
- Health-related quality of life
- Intensive care utilization following surgical procedures
- Anesthesiology and intensive care
- Intensive care and organ transplantation
- Stress disorders
- Innovation and new trends

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Intensive Care Medicine” should be chosen during your submission.
