Special Issue on Well-Being and Health

Call for Papers

Well-being is the condition of an individual or group. A high level of well-being means that in some sense the individual's or group's condition is positive. It refers to diverse and interconnected dimensions of physical, mental, and social well-being that extend beyond the traditional definition of health. It includes choices and activities aimed at achieving physical vitality, mental alacrity, social satisfaction, a sense of accomplishment, and personal fulfillment.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Well-Being and Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Well-being and mental health
- Physical activity and health promotion
- Assessment and therapy
- Well-being and behaviors
- Family well-being and child development
- Nursing and care for diseases
- Well-being and quality of life
- Wellbeing and public health
- Occupational well-being
- Positive cognitions and psychology
- Life satisfaction

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Well-Being and Health” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Submission Deadline</th>
<th>September 9th, 2019</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Publication Date</td>
<td>November 2019</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at