Special Issue on Mental Health Care and Treatment

Call for Papers

Mental health is a level of psychological well-being or an absence of mental illness. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), mental health includes "subjective well-being, perceived self-efficacy, autonomy, competence, inter-generational dependence, and self-actualization of one's intellectual and emotional potential, among others."

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Mental Health Care and Treatment. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Mental health policy
- Services and management
- Prevention, nursing and healthcare
- Assessment and evaluations
- Behavior, disorders and treatment
- Cognitive and emotional competence
- Challenges and risk analysis
- Mental illness and disorders
- Mental health and primary care
- Psychiatry and mental health
- Pathophysiology and psychotherapy
- Physical and mental health
- Activity therapies
- Depression, anxiety and stress
- Substance abuse
- Learning disability
- Child and adolescent mental health
- Family and relationships

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Mental Health Care and Treatment” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:
For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

Health Editorial Office
health@scirp.org