Special Issue on Library Science Research

Call for Papers

It was in the early 19th century that the experience, knowledge and technical methods of the library rose from a single system to a theory and became an independent discipline. Library science theory is the basis and guiding ideology of Library practice. It occupies the highest level in the library science system and provides theoretical basis for each branch of library science. Reader service is the eternal theme of library science research. The construction of information resources is an important research content of library science in the future. Information resource is the material basis and basic condition of serving readers. Without information resource, it can’t serve readers. It is the embodiment of library value and one of the important factors that determine the social status of library.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring library science research. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Library history
- Public library
- Electronic library
- Library science theory
- Library management
- Book classification and cataloguing
- Archival science
- Philology
- Information science and information management
- Information resources construction

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Library Science Research” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Submission Deadline</th>
<th>February 28th, 2019</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Publication Date</td>
<td>April 2019</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at jss@scirp.org