Special Issue on Linguistic Anthropology

Call for Papers

Language is a complex dynamic character system, which can be used as a metalanguage (a language tool used to explain language phenomena), metaphorical means, a part of culture, and a social action. Discourse power reflects social status, language behavior reflects the cultural class. The existence of human language is a process of synchronizing with human life. It symbiotic with society and culture, constantly developing and changing, making sense in social practice, and remembering culture in the long river of history. Human linguistics belongs to the branch of linguistics, mainly from the perspective of anthropology, and finds the meaning of language usage, style, form and register.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring linguistic anthropology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Language ideology
- Language contact and social change
- Linguistic minorities
- Language and political economy
- Language and media
- Semiotic anthropology
- Language acquisition and socialization
- Language and education
- Form, content and meaning
- Language loss, maintenance, and revitalization
- Language heritage, standardization and variation

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Linguistic Anthropology” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>March 28th, 2019</th>
<th>May 2019</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Submission Deadline</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Publication Date</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at jss@scirp.org