Special Issue on Women's Health & Care

Call for Papers

Women's health refers to the health of women. Women's health is an example of population health, where health is defined by the World Health Organization as "a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity". Women have unique health issues. And some of the health issues that affect both men and women can affect women differently. Unique issues include pregnancy, menopause, and conditions of the female organs. Women can have a healthy pregnancy by getting early and regular prenatal care. They should also get recommended breast cancer, cervical cancer, and bone density screenings.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Women's Health & Care. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Reproductive and sexual health
- Maternal health
- Infertility treatment
- Breast cancer treatment and healthcare
- Cancer research for women
- HPV infection and vaccine
- Cardiovascular disease in women
- Osteoporosis in women
- Postpartum’s care
- Menopause Research
- Hormone regulation and replacement therapy
- Mental health
- Violence against women

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Women's Health & Care” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

| Submission Deadline | December 25th, 2019 |

Copyright © 2006-2020 Scientific Research Publishing Inc. All rights reserved.
Publication Date | February 2020

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

Health Editorial Office
health@scirp.org