

Special Issue on Social Work

Call for Papers

Social work is a profession that focuses on improving the well-being and quality of life for individuals, families, groups, and communities. It is dedicated to addressing social issues and advocating for social justice principles. Ethical principles such as confidentiality, respect for individual dignity, and cultural competence are fundamental to the practice of social work. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Social Work.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Social Work. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Social welfare
- Human services
- Community development
- Counseling
- Advocacy
- Case management
- Group work
- Policy analysis
- Social justice
- Mental health
- Substance abuse
- Child welfare
- Elderly care
- Rehabilitation
- Crisis intervention
- Family support
- Nonprofit organizations
- Research in social work

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Social Work” should be selected during your submission.
