Special Issue on Social Anthropology

Call for Papers

Social Anthropology is a branch of anthropology that focuses on the study of human societies, cultures, and social relationships. The study enables us to develop a better understanding of how societies are structured and how individuals fit into the broader social, economic, and cultural contexts in which they live. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Social Anthropology.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Social Anthropology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Culture and society
- Economic anthropology
- Environmental anthropology
- Ethnicity
- Ethnography
- Ethnological society
- Familial anthropology
- Globalization
- Human relations
- Palaeoanthropology
- Political anthropology
- Social organization
- Symbology and linguistics
- Thought and art

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title. The research field "Special Issue - *Social Anthropology" should be selected during your submission.
