

Special Issue on Law & Politics

Call for Papers

There is a close relationship between politics and law. The actualization and secularization of law are the processes of legal politicization. Politics not only produce laws through the legislative process, but also lay the foundation of the power of the law and exert influence in the application of the law. The rule of law in politics is the key to establishing order in the political field and effectively restricting power. It also retains territory that is not regulated by law. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Law & Politics.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Law & Politics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Legislation and policy
- International law and politics
- Regional law and politics
- Social regulation, law and politics
- Market, law and politics
- Morality, law, and politics
- Law and order
- Government's involvement in law

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Law & Politics” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	November 15th, 2020
Publication Date	January 2021

Guest Editor:

Scientific Research
Open Access

Beijing Law Review

ISSN Online: 2159-4635

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at blr@scirp.org.