Special Issue on Social Science Education

Call for Papers

Social science education refers to the training of professional educators to teach social studies. It includes the training of social studies educators who emphasize the need for social education through the teaching of various social science disciplines (e.g., history, psychology, political science).

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Social Science Education. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Educational technology and innovation
- Education theory and practice
- Social sciences & education policy
- Digital tools and class design
- Social sciences in higher education
- History education
- Political education
- Philosophy education
- Arts education
- Legal education
- Music education
- Marxism and education
- Religious education
- Human rights and citizenship education
- Education and social work
- Morals, values, ethics and education
- Interdisciplinarity in social science education

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Social Science Education” should be chosen during your submission.
