Special Issue on Language and Education

Call for Papers

The academic topic of "Language and Education" examines the relationship between language and the educational system. It explores how language is used in the teaching and learning process, and the impact it has on educational outcomes. This field of study investigates various aspects such as language acquisition, bilingual education, language policies, language assessment, and the influence of cultural and social factors on language in educational settings. Understanding the dynamics of language in education is crucial for effective and inclusive teaching practices.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Language and Education. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Language assessment and testing
