

Special Issue on Herbal Medicine

Call for Papers

Herbal medicine, also known as phytotherapy or botanical medicine, involves the use of plants, plant extracts, and plant-based substances to prevent, alleviate, or treat various health conditions and diseases. This field explores traditional herbal practices from different cultures, as well as modern scientific approaches to understanding the efficacy, safety, and interactions of herbal remedies. It plays a significant role in complementary and alternative medicine, aiming to support health and wellness through natural remedies.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Herbal Medicine. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Pharmacognosy
- Phytochemistry
- Ethnobotany and traditional medicine
- Pharmacology
- Pharmaceutical analysis and technology
- Herbal toxicology
- Clinical trials of herbal medicines
- Clinical herbal medicine
- Herbal medicine in chronic disease management
