

Special Issue on Case Reports in Oncology

Call for Papers

Case Reports in Oncology is an academic topic that focuses on detailed descriptions and analyses of individual patient cases involving neoplastic diseases. These reports present unique or rare occurrences in oncology, highlighting the clinical presentation, diagnostic process, treatment strategies, and outcomes of specific cancer cases. Case reports serve as valuable sources of information for clinicians, researchers, and students, contributing to the understanding of disease mechanisms, treatment efficacy, and patient care in oncology.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Case Reports in Oncology. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Pathological case reports
- Radiological case reports
- Diagnostic challenges and approaches
- Therapeutic case reports
- Surgical case reports
- Clinical trials case reports
- Genetic and molecular oncology case reports
- Palliative care case reports
- Survivorship case reports
- Rare or unusual types of cancer
- Integrative oncology and complementary therapies

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Case Reports in Oncology” should be chosen during your submission.
