

Special Issue on
Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine
Call for Papers

"Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine" are detailed accounts of the clinical presentation, diagnosis, treatment, and follow-up of individual patients or a small series of cases. These reports highlight unusual or novel occurrences in the medical field, including rare diseases, innovative treatments, and novel diagnostic techniques. By documenting specific medical or surgical cases, they provide valuable insights into the practical aspects of medicine, contribute to medical education, and can inform future research avenues. Case reports are crucial for sharing experiential knowledge among healthcare professionals, enhancing understanding of medical anomalies, and improving patient care strategies in clinical practice.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:
