

Special Issue on Child Health, Care and Development

Call for Papers

"Child Health, Care and Development" is an academic topic that encompasses the physical, mental, and emotional well-being of children. It focuses on understanding and promoting optimal health outcomes for children, examining factors such as nutrition, growth, cognitive development, social interactions, and the role of caregivers. Child development entails the biological, psychological and emotional changes that occur in human beings between birth and the conclusion of adolescence. Research in this area explores interventions, policies, and practices that support the holistic development and well-being of children from infancy to adolescence.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Child Health, Care and Development. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Pediatric medicine
- Child psychology and psychiatry
- Behavioral problems
- Child epidemiology
- Nutritional science
- Public health interventions
- Health policy
- Developmental disabilities
- Child health disparities
- Children's health care
- Obesity and weight problems
- Family and childhood development
- Child vaccination and disease prevention

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue – Child Health, Care and Development" should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	January 24th, 2024
---------------------	--------------------

Publication Date	March 2024
------------------	------------

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

Health Editorial Office
health@scirp.org