Special Issue on Sexual and Reproductive Health

Call for Papers

Sexual and Reproductive Health is a multidisciplinary field that focuses on the physical, emotional, and social aspects of sexual and reproductive well-being throughout a person's life. It encompasses areas such as reproductive rights, family planning, contraception, sexually transmitted infections, pregnancy, childbirth, infertility, sexual health education, and addressing the diverse needs and challenges faced by individuals and communities in relation to their sexual and reproductive health. Through research and education, this field aims to promote optimal health outcomes and enhance individuals' quality of life in matters of sexuality and reproduction.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Sexual and Reproductive Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Sexual dysfunction & disorders
- Sexual health & disease prevention
- Reproductive genetics
- Reproductive health rights and policies
- Reproductive health care
- Contraception and family planning
- Sexually transmitted infections and prevention strategies
- HIV prevention, testing, and treatment
- Adolescent sexual and reproductive health
- Maternal and child health
- Infertility and assisted reproductive technologies
- Gender and reproductive health disparities
- Sexuality education and health promotion
- Reproductive health and population health
