

Special Issue on Mental and Emotional Health

Call for Papers

"Mental and Emotional Health" is an academic topic that focuses on understanding and promoting psychological well-being and addressing mental health challenges. It encompasses research related to various mental disorders, such as depression, anxiety, schizophrenia, and bipolar disorder. This field also examines factors that influence mental and emotional well-being, including social determinants, stress, resilience, and coping mechanisms. Researchers in this area aim to improve psychological assessment, develop effective interventions and therapies, and enhance overall mental and emotional health for individuals and communities.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Mental and Emotional Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Clinical psychology
