

Special Issue on Health and Quality of Life

Call for Papers

The academic topic "Health and Quality of Life" explores the various factors that impact an individual's physical, mental, and social well-being, and how these factors contribute to their overall quality of life. It intersects with disciplines such as medicine, psychology, public health, and sociology to assess and improve health outcomes, lifestyle satisfaction, and personal fulfillment. Research in this field aims to identify strategies that enhance life quality through health promotion, disease prevention, and effective healthcare interventions.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Health and Quality of Life. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Physical health and well-being
- Mental health and well-being
- Social health and community well-being
- Environmental health
- Occupational Health
- Aging and gerontology
- Chronic disease management
- Palliative and end-of-life care
- Public health and epidemiology
- Healthy behaviors, disease prevention and quality of life
- Health promotion and behavior change
- Global health and development
- Health economics and policy

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
