

Special Issue on Brain, Cognition and Behavior

Call for Papers

Research in the cognition, brain, and behavior group includes studies of sensation and perception, learning and memory, attention, mental imagery, conceptual representation, aging, language, emotion, motor control, social cognition, moral decision making, and neurological disorders. In this area, psychologists examine how we perceive the world, acquire new information, retrieve memories, communicate and interact with others, and effect complex cognitive abilities such as creative problem solving.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Brain, Cognition and Behavior. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Cognitive neuroscience
- Sensation and perception
- Psychological and brain science
- Perception model
- Brain-behavioral mechanism
- Neuropsychological assessment
- Functional patterns and behaviors
- Information processing and behavior analysis
- ADHD
- Language, brain and behavior
- Memory and learning
- Visual and spatial cognition
- Emotion, affect, and cognition
