Special Issue on Radiation Therapy

Call for Papers

Radiation therapy is a therapy using ionizing radiation, generally as part of cancer treatment to control or kill malignant cells and normally delivered by a linear accelerator. Radiation therapy may be curative in a number of types of cancer if they are localized to one area of the body.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Radiation Therapy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Radiation oncology
- Diagnostic radiology
- Therapeutic radiography
- Preoperative radiotherapy
- Intraoperative radiotherapy
- Medical imaging and radiation
- Adaptive radiotherapy
- Brachytherapy
- Radiochemotherapy
- Side effects
- Radiography
- Radiobiology
- Innovative technology

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Radiation Therapy” should be chosen during your submission.
