

Special Issue on Human Capital and Economic Growth

Call for Papers

Human capital is the reserve of skills possessed by the labor force. It can effectively allocate resources and adjust corporate development strategies. The core of human capital is to improve population quality, and education investment is the main part of human investment. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Human Capital and Economic Growth.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Human Capital and Economic Growth. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Intellectual and social capital
- Human capital management
- Human capital theory
- Investment in human capital
- Workforce planning and strategy
- Employee training and development
- Human capital flight
- Evaluation of human capital
- Factors in affecting human capital
- Labour productivity

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Human Capital and Economic Growth” should be selected during your submission.
